John Smith - Chevy Truck

What was the hardest part of your truck to fix?
The hardest part was pulling the entire dash out to replace the passenger side airbag and dash skin.

How many vehicles have you rebuilt?
This was my fathers and myself first rebuild together.

What was your budget on the Rebuild?
Our budget was $13,000 we ended up coming in under budget at $10,268 and sold the truck for $18,000.

How long did it take from start to finish?
Took right around 2 months. We worked on the truck when we had free time also took sometime to find parts.

Why did you pick this truck?
Was looking for something fairly easy with no major frame or cab damage for our first rebuild. Yes it was special memory to make with my father.

Did you do it all yourself?
Yes we did everything ourselves beside the paint. This was a father/son project we plan on buying more trucks from coparts to work on together.

Tell us a little about yourself.
I work as a Senior Cyber Security Specialist. My father is a retired coal miner. Was just looking for a new challenge to complete after some googling I came across the copart website and signed up.
